

How does travel insurance work?

Travel insurance provides protection in the event of unexpected events during your trip. The insured person does not have to worry about covering the costs out of their own pocket in the event of damage to another person or property. He can also count on compensation in the case of, among others, loss or damage to luggage or the costs of rescue and medical treatment after an accident, for example on a slope or on a beach. A stay in a hospital, rehabilitation or medical transport can trigger large expenses, which are covered by the insurer if you take out travel insurance.
